Five Years Of Scorn Over For "Red"

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (U)—Nearly five years of being scorned and branded as a Communist were at an end today for R. J. Hardin of Large, Pa.

Finally, the truth he had been forced to keep secret is out. He was a Communist, yes, but for the FBI.

Hardin, a slight, gray-haired former coal miner, appeared Thursday as a government witness before the Subversive Activities Control Board. The board is considering a government request to require the Civil Rights Congress to register as a Communist front.

Hardin then revealed his true status with the Communists. He said he was convinced it was the first inkling the Communists had that he was an FBI informant. Hardin was publicly branded as a Communist by a witness before the House Un-American Activities Committee on March 24, 1950. He was then working as a miner at Johnstown, Pa.

Fired, Ostracized
The next morning, he said, "I went down to the local United Mine Workers meeting and the men told me they wouldn't work with me."

"The superintendent of the mine called me in and told me I was fired. People threw rocks at my house. And the landlord ordered me to move out. I had to leave Johnstown."

But Hardin said he continued to stay in the party "at the instigation of the FBI."

Initially, the congressional witnesses who first identified Hardin as a Communist were Matthew Cvetlic, who himself was an FBI informant. Neither knew the other was working as an undercover agent for the government.

Hardin said he first joined the party at High Point, N. C., for several months in 1931 and then rejoined it at Danville, Pa., in 1934 "at the request of Danville Police Commissioner Holland."

He said he left Danville in 1937 and rejoined the party again in 1943 at Ebersburg, Pa., this time at the request of the FBI.

Later, he was assigned to the Johnstown branch of the party and served in various official capacities.

Becomes Organizer
He also became party organizer for Cambria County, he said, and a member of the Tri-State Coal Board, which he said was a group of Communist party coal miners.

He said he later was dropped from the board when its members were reduced from 41 to 11. He said a party official explained that the board reduction was undertaken for "security reasons."

Hardin testified he joined the Civil Rights Congress in 1951 in Western Pennsylvania. He said he was told by the wife of Steve Nelson, then top Communist party official in Western Pennsylvania, that he could get in touch with Nelson through the congress branch at Pittsburgh.

He said Nelson served on an advisory board to the congress and that other Communist party functionaries also served on various advisory boards.

"Growing Unit Complete By MTS Freshmen Girls

By Nancy McClure

"Growing UP" is the unit just completed by the ninth grade Home Economics Class of Murray Training School. Physical, mental and emotional changes were discussed and illustrated by individual photographs of various ages. Girls assets and limitations were analyzed.

The girls gave demonstrations on the things they studied. Olivia Barnett and Linda Hall showed the class proper table manners. In this they showed how to hold a knife and fork when cutting meat, how to hold cutlery when drinking, and how the table should be set.

Nancy McClure and Joetta Ray gave a demonstration on darning. They showed improper manners while eating, dancing, and at the theatre. Linda Roberts and Linda Marshall corrected the improper ways by showing the characteristics of a good date.

Sue Fielder, Kay Miller, Linda Roberts, and Janie Barnes showed the class the importance of a family council by dramatization. Jackie Watson, Linda Hall, Sue Scarborough, and Olivia Barnett showed how introductions should be made.

The class has really enjoyed this unit, and they will have an opportunity to practice part of what they have learned by giving a Tea for their mothers on Friday of this week.

This group is very interested in doing baby sitting, if at any time you should need them, they are very qualified to keep your child.

Conrad Jones To Head Local Medical Group

At the December meeting of the Calloway County Medical Society officers and staff positions were elected as follows:

Dr. Conrad H. Jones will be President of the local society. Chief of Staff of Murray Hospital, Dr. Robert W. Hahn will be Vice President. Dr. Hugh L. Houston was elected Secretary and Treasurer for 1955 and 1956. Dr. A. D. Butterworth was elected Delegate to the Kentucky State Medical Association from the local society to serve two years.

Drs. Jones, Hahn and Houston will represent the medical society on the Interlocking Committee of the Murray Hospital. This committee, with a similar number from the Murray Hospital Board, is responsible for discussing policies for the local institution.

Retiring officers for 1954 are Dr. C. C. Lowry, President and Chief of Staff, Dr. A. D. Butterworth, Vice President, Dr. J. L. Hopson, Dr. John Quentermeier, Delegate to the Kentucky State Medical Association.

CROSBY IN SUIT

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Croons Bing Crosby today found himself in a new role — defendant in a million-dollar damage suit over auto injuries suffered by three persons who accused him of reckless driving.

When the trial began in Los Angeles Superior Court Thursday, the singer commented, "I've never been a principal in one of these things before, not even in a picture."

PTA Health Chairmen Hold Meeting

The regular meeting of the Parent Teachers Association Health Chairmen was held Monday at the Health Center. Mrs. Kenneth Ross, chairman of the group presided over the meeting. Twenty-two ladies were present. Both old and new business was discussed. Mrs. John R. Imes was elected secretary.

Miss Marjorie Murphy discussed the nutrition program she had previously brought before the Health Chairmen. She assured them that with their approval she would continue to work on their project and have it ready for the next meeting.

Mrs. Joy Pogue, Health Nurse presented to the group the vital importance of immunizations. The Christmas Seal program was also presented by Mrs. Bun Swann, to the Health Chairmen for their community.

The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in January at 2:30 p.m. at the Health Center.

Mrs. Carson Passes Away

Mrs. Lennis Carson, age 49, died Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at her home on Kirksey Route 2. Her death was due to complications following an extended illness.

She is survived by her husband, Lennis Carson, Kirksey Route 2, one brother, William Murray, Detroit, Michigan, one niece, Mrs. Roy Fuller of Nashville, Tennessee.

Mrs. Carson was a member of the Woodland Baptist Church of Nashville, Tennessee. Her funeral was held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the Mt. Carmel Methodist Church with Rev. Orville Easley conducting the service.

Active pallbearers were: Herman Hanley, Crawford Hanley, Wavel Walker, Ocus Lawrence, Bryan Staples, and Edwin McLeod. Burial was in the Mt. Carmel Cemetery. The J. H. Churchill Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Oratorio Is Free And Open To The Public

On Sunday afternoon December 12 at 3:00 p.m. the Oratorio Chorus under the direction of Professor Robert Baar will present the "Christmas Oratorio" of Saint Saens. The production will be held in the Murray State College Fine Arts building Recital Hall.

This is a seldom heard oratorio. Professor Baar said, but one with great merit and should be better known by those who are interested in choral music, especially Christmas music.

The oratorio is known for its effective ensemble passages which will be sung by Margie Whitner, soprano, Jeanette Woodward, mezzo soprano, Charlotte Reagan, contralto, Festus Robertson, tenor, and Eyril Byassee, bass.

Before the Oratorio is sung, several solos from Handel's "The Messiah" will be heard.

CHEOP'S SOLAR SHIP UNCOVERED

DISCOVERED early this year, the Egyptian Pharaoh Cheop's solar vessel is uncovered near Cairo for the first time in 4,700 years. The vessel, built to carry the ghost of Cheop in the fleet of immortals accompanying the sun god Ra on his eternal round of the heavens, was found at the foot of Cheop's pyramid by Kamal el Mallakh, young Egyptian archaeologist. ## Tobacco Referenda Planned On Fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco growers will vote in referenda Tuesday, December 14, to marketing quotas on the crop of tobacco to be produced next year, according to James R. Rash, chairman of the State ASC Committee.

As required by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has proclaimed quotas on the 1955 crops of fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco and has called for referenda among growers, to determine whether the growers want to continue marketing quotas. Growers will vote on quotas for three years beginning with the 1955 crop; for quotas for the 1955 crop only; or, against quotas.

The marketing quota program will continue in effect if it is approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referenda. A grower is any person who has an interest in the 1954 crop of fire-cured or dark air-cured tobacco. No grower, however, is entitled to more than one vote even though he may have been engaged in the production of tobacco on two or more farms.

If marketing quotas are approved, the controlling legislation provides for price support to be available on the crops of fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco to be grown in 1955. If marketing quotas are disapproved, there will be no price support available on the crop to be grown in 1955. Whatever the outcome of either referendum, however, price support loans will be available on 1954 crop of fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco.

Rash stated that the voting in past referendums has been very light, and that it is his hope that all eligible voters will go to the polls this year regardless of how the voter casts his ballot.

Polling places in Calloway County will open at 8:00 a.m. and close at 5:00 p.m.

Voting places are as follows: Murray, County ASC office; Concord, Concord High School; Liberty, Faxon School; Brinkley, Coldwater School; Swann, Lynn Grove High School; Wadesboro, Almo High School; Hazel, Hazel High School.

Tobacco Storage Warehouse Almost Completed

The storage building being constructed by the Murray Warehouse Corporation, a subsidiary of Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association, is almost completed.

The 245 x 96 feet building will hold 2400 hogheads of tobacco. Cost of the new building located on East Elm street was $48,019.76 according to Holmes Ellis, general manager of the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association.

The Western Dark Tobacco Corporation will pack the tobacco at their prizing and they have employed James Paschall of Kirksey as prizing foreman, Ellis said.

The building was designed by Wallace Key and constructed by Paul Rogers. There are no supports in the center of the large warehouse as steel supports carry the weight of the roof. The supports run from side to side and are attached to steel girders in the walls.

Exhibit And Bazaar To Open Monday

The Kappa Pi and Portfolio Club of Murray State College Art Department will open their annual Christmas exhibit and bazaar on Monday December 13 in the basement of the library building on the campus.

It will be open from 8:00 to 5:00 o'clock on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

A variety of articles will be displayed by the members, for public purchase. The list of articles includes enamel pieces, jewelry, ceramics, Christmas cards, serigraphs, painting and stenciled textiles.

The bazaar will close Wednesday December 15 at 5:00 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Total Sales Of One-Sucker Tobacco Now $325,794.87

Total sales of one-sucker tobacco amounted to 1,031,945 pounds as reflected in the last report of the Western Dark Fired Tobacco brought 335,794.87 at an average of 31.57.

According to Holmes Ellis, general manager of the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association, following are the figures for Murray and Mayfield.

Murray, 443,288 pounds sold for $139,525.55 with an average of 31.48. Mayfield, 588,677 pounds sold for $186,269.32 with an average of 31.64.

The dark fired market will open on January 3, Ellis reported.

Mrs. Cooper Dies Thursday

Mrs. Madue D. Cooper, age 73, died at the Paducah Baptist Hospital on Thursday at 9:00 p.m. Death was attributed to a heart attack. Mrs. Cooper resided at 1103 Monroe Street in Paducah, where she had lived for the past 30 years.

She is survived by one son, Burie Cooper, Almo, three sisters, Mrs. John Graham, Almo, Mrs. Ed Elrough, Almo, Carmon Outland, Lone Oak, Kentucky. One grandson, Joe Ryan Cooper and one great-granddaughter, Ann Ryan Cooper. Also left to survive her were several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Cooper was a member of the First Baptist Church. Funeral services will be held at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home Sunday at 2:00 p.m., conducted by Rev. Paul Bailey. Her nephews will be the active pallbearers.

The body will remain at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home until the funeral hour. The J. H. Churchill Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Sportsmen To Have Special Program

A special program has been planned for the next regular meeting of the Calloway County Conservation Club which will be Monday night, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Court Room of the Court House. This program will be under the direction of J. B. McClain, 1st-District supervisor of Junior Conservation work.

Mr. McClain lives here in Murray. Principle part of the program will consist of a demonstration of the Hunter-Safety course that was taught at Camp Currie last summer, and is now being taught in the schools of the county as a part of Junior Conservation club work.

Participants in the program will be Brenda Wilson, Murray Training School student, who will give the introduction to the rest of the program. Kris Miller, also a student at the Murray Training School, will explain the Junior Conservation Club activities offered at Camp Currie, especially that of the Hunter-Safety course. Jackie Butterworth, student at Lynn Grove, will give a demonstration of the Hunter-Safety course, using special props and colored slides. This program promises to be one of the best ever had as a Sportsmen's club meeting, and members of the club are requested to bring their families. The club will welcome visitors to this meeting also.

The Sportsmen's Club is having a membership drive at the present time, and further plans for obtaining 500 members for 1955 will be briefly discussed at the club meeting Monday night. In connection with the membership drive there is a contest, the rules of which will be explained in the meeting. Prizes of a $25.00 bond, several $10.00 gift certificates and other valuable awards will go to those securing the most members for the club. Membership fee is $2.00 per year which includes a subscription to the magazine Happy Hunting Ground.

Wesleyan Panthers Down Thoroughbreds

OWENSBORO (U)—Forward Ernie Abernathy led the Kentucky Wesleyan Panthers to a 91-66 victory over the Murray Thoroughbreds last night in a stunning upset.

Abernathy poured in 31 points as the Panthers dominated play almost from the start of the game. Teammates Tom Witherspoon and Joe Rood added 20 and 16 points respectively.

Murray rallied after falling behind 46-33 at the half and closed the gap to 37-31 but another flurry moved the Panthers out of range. Howie Crittenden's 25 points was high for the Thoroughbreds.

Business Leaders In Many Industries Concur That 1955 Will Prove To Be A Highly Good Year For Business In The United States And In Canada

EDITOR'S NOTE: Business leaders across the country and in widely varied industries have been polled by United Press on economic prospects for 1955 and beyond. The following dispatch summarizes their opinions. Second of a series of three on economic conditions.

By JACK V. FOX
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (U)—The United States and Canada are in for an extremely good business year in 1955.

That is the opinion of business leaders in every section of the country and in widely diversified industries.

There is virtually unanimous agreement that in 1955 will be better than 1954 and that the business surge which began in the autumn will mount with steady but not spectacular momentum.

The forecast came from leaders in farming and livestock, home construction, steel, retail merchandising, banking, textile manufacturing, the stock market, factory production, shipping, mining, airlines and railroads.

Reasons for this economic renaissance included population growth, release of new products, improved conditions in Europe and South America, more liberal credit terms, national defense demands and the impetus furnished by such booming industries as housing.

Electronics was singled out by the President of the National Association of Manufacturers as the industry with the brightest future. The West Coast, the Southwest and the Rocky Mountains were the areas of greatest optimism.

There are weak spots. The textile industry is cautious. Some farm products may find rough sledding. But of the overall picture from the viewpoint of the businessman is very good.

Summary of Opinions
This is a summary of opinions from 11 sections of the country and Montreal, Canada:

Chicago: Sylvester J. Meyers, president of the Chicago Board of Trade: The general outlook for Midwest farmers in 1955 appears to be quite favorable. With a few notable exceptions such as eggs and poultry, farm product prices reversed their downward trend during the past year and in some cases are now higher than a year ago. Farm price levels are closely related to the general level of the economy as a whole and since we appear to be headed into a period where business activity will be relatively prosperous and stable, agricultural income should remain at a good level.

Boston: Martin Cerel, one of New England's biggest home builders: I predict a bright outlook in the building industry extending through 1957. Cerel built 1,600 homes in the Boston area this year and plans to build at least

OFFER ENDS DECEMBER 18

The puzzler of where the ducks and geese have been since opening day is being cleared now that the birds are checking in at the refuges set up by federal and state wildlife agencies. Waterfowl officials were getting concerned over the failure of the big hunters to show up in numbers at famous Horicon marsh, Horseshoe, Reelfoot and Kentucky Lake refuges. According to a word from Parker Smith of Paris, Tennessee, waterfowl project leader for the state Game and Fish Commission, the birds are now pouring into these refuges in good numbers.

At Cairo, Illinois, commercial shooting pit operators there were long faces until last week end. The kill success was way off, and business had. One estimate for last year's kill put the figure at 54,000 geese. Until last week there weren't that many geese in the refuge. The rough weather that moved in the first of the week helped matters considerably further north. At the present, the peak of "goodness" for our Kentucky Lake area in Calloway and Marshall counties is expected to be reached in two to three weeks. That would put it about the middle of the upcoming holidays.

According to surveys flying the Mississippi flyway, the number of geese counted was 70,000 with more coming in hourly. That figure, is double earlier reports. The reporting biologists also flew up the Illinois river and reported seeing over 1,000,000 mallard ducks. A statement included in the report said that these would be moving further south at the first weather break, we have had that Duck hunters will appreciate this advance notice and this week end should supply some excellent shooting possibilities as compared with the results thus far in the season.

Kentucky Lake Yields Four Pound Crappie Last Month

The big fish was caught by Mrs. Hubert Herrington while fishing on Armistice Day. It was taken near the Link lodge on a tributary of the Duck River embayment of Kentucky lake. The Grandpapa crappie, a real "slaw", weighed a tremendous 4 pounds. Mrs. Herrington was fishing with a cane pole and the big fish broke it, nearly escaping, but with considerable trouble she finally managed to land the whopper.

That is the second largest crappie we have ever heard of being taken from Kentucky lake. Several years ago a 4-3-4 pounder was landed near the Egner's Ferry bridge. The outlook for some real slabsides being taken come spring certainly look promising.

More Truth Than Poetry

"Loaded gun,
Barbed wire fence;
Pulled gun through,
Gone hence!"

GEESE BACK HOME

Six Canada geese, big ones, have returned from a sojourn north during the summer and for the third straight year are now making their home on the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources Game Farm lakes.

These six geese have always been somewhat of a mystery however to the men that work at the Game Farm. Even though these birds always return, remain six in number, the big question is, what do they do with their young?

Whenever the state Game Farm is mentioned, this story has to be told. Lee Heiser, manager of the farm, and Dolly Meriwether, an employee, made their annual rabbit hunting jaunt when the season opened last month. The result — five boxes of shells used, two tired men, a "tired" dog, and one "1" rabbit. Why the rabbit? Lee, crippled the bunny as he hesitated to get through a fence, the dog trailed him and with the help of the two hunters, ran him down.

DAM EARL WALLACE

Now, don't read this wrong — A dam across Elkhorn Creek in Scott County was dedicated recently and was named Dam Earl Wallace, after the Director of the State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The dam was completed by the Department as a part of its dam-building program to improve streams.

Membership Drive Continues

The drive for 500 members in 1955 of the Calloway County Conservation Club continues and the results thus far look good. Many of the present members are working for the prizes offered to those securing the most new and old members. The membership fee is $2.00 a year, which includes membership in the League of Kentucky Sportsmen and a subscription to the magazine "Happy Hunting Ground."

Certainly all sportsmen in Calloway County will want to join this fine organization and many others that are interested in Conservation also.

Atomic Tests Outweigh The Danger

EDITORS' NOTE: Fear has been voiced recently that radioactivity released by atomic weapons tests may have a damaging long-range effect on man—possibly resulting in a race of defectives or even in extinction of the human species. Responsible U. S. officials have concluded, however, that the benefits of continued tests outweigh possible hazards. The following dispatch tells why.

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (U. P.)

American atomic officials are frightened by what they call "radiation scare stories" forecasting mankind's eventual gaseous doom. They fear such "dire predictions may make it politically difficult if it is impossible, to continue this country's A-bomb and H-bomb test programs.

Back of these fears is a firm conviction that American atomic progress is the world's best insurance against war.

They contend any possible long-term hazards from such operations are infinitesimal compared to the immediate hazards of an atomic world war.

The United States so far has staged at least 50 nuclear tests, Russia a minimum of 11, and Britain three. They have added up precisely to the planet's general radioactivity level.

Genetic Damage
Some biologists believe the increase has been enough — even if no further atomic damage ESST no further atomic damage ESST no further atomic damage ESST no further atomic damage ESST no further atomic damage ESST

Officials do not ignore the possible long-range effects of atomic radiation. The United Press has learned an high authority, however, that this country has no idea of abandoning its test program, unless compelled by international politics to do so.

The Atomic Energy Commission, the Defense Department, and the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee have thoroughly explored radiation problems involved in testing A-bombs and H-bombs.

They have concluded, one official said, that while risks are involved, all technological development is beset by risks.

"That is the price man pays for progress," the official said.

Research has established that atomic radiation is one of the many causes of "spontaneous mutations" — alterations of the genes. Genes are tiny bits of germ cell plasma which carry the inheritance patterns passed on from generation to generation. These gene mutations are responsible for all evolution.

Know Your Bait?

By BEN ROVIN

The GIMMICK is made by the Bomber Bait Company and is the answer to this cold weather fishing. It is a "perfect" for below the dam fishing for sauger and largemouth. Weighted perfectly, coming in a variety of 14 color combinations and with the hook always riding up which prevents snagging. The GIMMICK is one of the best all year round baits.

Last summer we used it on bass and crappie, scoring tremendous hauls on both species. One of the delights about the lure is the blade, it will spin no matter how slowly the lure is retrieved. This is important in fishing for sauger below Kentucky Dam. One must fish about a foot off the bottom and as slowly as possible. The spinner attracts the sauger's attention and the fly covering the hook serves as the final incentive.

Then, Bingo! You're into a real underwater fighter. Best color? Black and White!

New Version of Civilian Jeep

A new version of the famed Willys Jeep, the CJ-5, is being introduced by Kaiser-Willys dealers across the country and around the world. The new vehicle, designed for a multitude of transportation and towing chores on or off-the-road, is more rugged, roomier and more comfortable than predecessors. It is powered by the Willys 75 h. p. F-head "Hurricane" engine in combination with a wheel drive.

can step up the mutation rate, normally very slow. And since most mutations are bad, geneticists like Dr. A. H. Sturtevant, of the California Institute of Technology, conclude that a large increase in the world level of radiation could damage the race over a span of many generations.

"There is no possible escape," Sturtevant has said, "from the conclusion that the atomic bombs already exploded will ultimately result in the production of numerous defective individuals — if the human species itself survives for many generations."

No, the scientists share Sturtevant's gloomy conviction. Among these are Dr. John C. Bugher, chief of the AEC's division of biology and medicine.

In Bugher's opinion, "dire predictions of many monsters and even the obliteration of mankind itself" are "reckless and uncritical pronouncements based upon assumptions which go far beyond our knowledge."

"Such distortions of emphasis," Bugher says, "are comparable to contending that meteors from outer space are a major threat to safety on our highways and threaten the survival of all motorists."

The AEC has made careful measurements of radioactivity in the United States after H-bomb and A-bomb tests in the Pacific and in Nevada.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Dr. H. C. Chiles

Yearning For The Living God
In our successes and failures, hopes and fears, joys and sorrows, we turn to the Psalms, which enable us to express our thoughts and desires, however varied they may be.
Psalm 42:1-8

This psalm reveals the circumstances of the writer. His enemies had driven him out of Jerusalem and into exile. While in exile, he was unable to have fellowship with his family or to sit upon his throne. What grieved him more was being deprived of the privilege of worshipping God in the accustomed place. In his distress he longed for the opportunity of having communion with God in the temple. He wondered when he would have that blessed privilege again. Alas, so many take their blessings for granted and do not appreciate many of the best things of life until they have been deprived of them.

In his loneliness the psalmist felt that he simply could not go on without help from God. His desperate yearning for the living God was expressed beautifully and effectively in verses one and two. He had frequently seen a deer with open mouth and heaving flanks eagerly seeking water in dried-up brooks. Memories of that sight reminded him of his personal longing for the presence of God in the sanctuary. To him the living God, in contrast to idols, was an absolute necessity. Just as the deer and the stream of water belong together, so does man need to be rightly related to God. Nobody can have complete satisfaction apart from God. As Augustine said, "Thou hast made us for Thyself, and the heart of man is restless until it finds rest in Thee." But, it is good to recall the words of Christ, "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink." He alone can satisfy your longing for forgiveness, salvation and usefulness. He is the only One Who can satisfy the real needs of your soul, and you will never have a need that He cannot supply. As long as you are without Him, you will have a yearning in your soul.

As often happens with God's children, Satan tempted the psalmist to question the goodness of God. Because of his unfavorable circumstances and unfavorable environment, he concluded that he had been mistreated. It is so easy to think that our trouble is worse than anybody else ever endured.

Overwhelmed by his troubles, trials and tribulations, the psalmist was prone to be despondent. Concerning these things, which he regarded as having come into his personal experience by the directive or permissive will of God, he remarked, "All thy waves and thy billows are gone over me." He longed to place his implicit faith in God and was blessed wonderfully.

As long as we are here, we shall encounter temptations, disappointments, problems and trials that will tend to discourage us, but we must not become despondent for we have the blessed assurance that God will see us through. In His own time and way the help which we need will be made available to us.

Psalm 84:5-9

This Psalm is a companion to the forty-second. It begins with an eager longing for the sanctuary of the Lord, where the name of Jehovah had been placed, where His glory had been manifested and where He had been worshiped by the Israelites. The writer of this Psalm had an ardent, intense and consuming desire for communion with Him in His courts.

It is always refreshing and encouraging when people have a longing to meet God in His house. Those who truly love Him find a great delight in going to the house of the Lord for worship. No other house is as dear to them. Those who love God and frequent the place of His habitation always receive numerous blessings from Him. Then, they are sufficiently anxious for others to enjoy the service there with them that they extend to them a cordial invitation and a hearty welcome.

Public worship is a great privilege that should not be neglected. God's children always miss a blessing when they absent themselves from the house of the Lord. If they love Him as they should, they will be faithful in their attendance upon the services at His house. Blessed are those who appear in His presence and praise Him for what He has done for them and for others. Such periods of genuine spiritual warfare and growth in holiness and high purposes.
Psalm 102:25-27

In these verses there is a frank acknowledgement of the sublime truth that the heavens and the earth came into being by the creative act of God. The omnipotent and omniscient God is the Creator and Sustainer of all things. His great mind conceived the universe in which we live and His great power created and preserves it. He has not changed and will not change. He is ever the same. He is the One in Whom each of us should place his complete trust. Those who do so will never have a single cause to regret it.

Business Leaders In Many . . . Christmas

2000 next year. He sees New England as no longer reared to a textile industry economy but just now feeling the first good effects of a new, diversified industry approach.

Steel Outlook Good
Pittsburgh: Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corp., issued the present strong demand for products of the steel industry to continue during the final month of the year. I also anticipate that for the steel industry and business in general, 1955 will prove to be a somewhat better year than 1954.

Denver: Joseph Ross, president of Daniels & Fisher Department Stores, optimistic over the present and future of the Rocky Mountain area economic situation. He forecasts a tremendous long range future as requirements of industry and national defense demand more and more of the area's natural resources. "The present economic situation is good."

Dallas: Paul Flanagan, president of the Republic National Bank, says 1954 will go down as one of the best business years in our history. There has been a definite slackening in many lines of business but the readjustment seems to be well behind us and we are now looking at another period of healthy growth in the months ahead. In Texas and the Southwest, we have the greatest wealth producing area in the country.

Atlanta: T. M. Forbes, executive secretary of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia: After almost two years of declining sales, production and profits conditions in the textile industry have shown some improvement during the past two or three months. The volume of orders and production increased slightly and prices strengthened. We are hopeful that may be indicative of a reversal of the depressed conditions with which the industry has been afflicted.

Release of New Products
Detroit: John S. Coleman, president Burroughs Corp.: There seems to be general agreement that the economic recovery which began in the fall will continue. All im-

Decorating Hints Given

By J. A. Outland, M.D.

Dr. J. A. Outland issued the following hints for Christmas Decorating:

1. Keep the tree in water from the time you bring it home.
2. Make a fresh saw cut across the base before decorating the tree.
3. Place the tree in a water-containing holder, and fill it daily.
4. Use flame resistant icicles and tinsel.
5. Don't attach too many strings.

New Orleans: Harry X. Kelly, president Mississippi Shipping Co., I have always been high on the economic possibilities of the Gulf, Mississippi delta area. Enthusiasm about increased oil production, rice, sugar and sulphur. As to shipping, total exports for the Gulf area in 1955 will be about the same as 1954 and government policies will be at least as favorable and possibly more favorable.

New York: Edmund W. Tabell, partner in the stock exchange firm of Walston & Co.: Believes the stock market has generated enough momentum to carry its advance into 1955 to an all-time high. He sees the Dow Jones industrial average getting into the 425 territory, a record high. Expects a period of "correction" and then a resumption of the advance that will be a history making bull market, beating the 1929 one by far.

to one outlet. A blown fuse is a signal of a dangerous overload.
8. Check tree lights for worn insulation or loose sockets.
7. Don't use lighted candles near the Christmas tree.

9. Place the tree away from the fireplace or other locations where it is exposed to sparks or strong heat.

10. Be sure the "snow" around the tree will not burn.
11. Don't hang metal foil icicles over wires or tree lights.
12. Keep a waste basket handy for disposal of gift wrapping.
13. Keep all flammable wrappings away from heat.

Miss Jane Blankenship Becomes Bride Of Guy Hill Recently

Miss Winona Jane Blankenship, daughter of Mrs. H. P. Blankenship and the late Rev. H. P. Blankenship, became the bride of Mr. Guy E. (Buddy) Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hill of Paris, Tennessee, in an impressive ceremony on November 28.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. W. E. Mischke at four o'clock in the afternoon at the South Pleasant Grove Methodist Church before an altar consisting of wrought iron candelabra which held tall white tapers interspersed with greenery. Baskets of white gladioli were placed at vantage points before the archway.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Misses Deanna Story, Ramelle Grace and Bloodavene Moore. Miss Moore sang "Because," "Our Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Miss Story. Miss Grace played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional, and Liebesraum was played during the pledging of the vows.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Blake Blankenship of Lansing, Michigan, wore a floor length gown of white satin. The collar of the gown was of lace and the long sleeves were lace trimmed, ending in a point over the hand. Tiny covered buttons adorned the front of the fully from the pointed-waist. Her finger tip veil of lace fell from a pearl trimmed head piece. She carried a white satin bible covered with tulle and carnations and centered by a large white orchid, tied with white satin ribbon.

The floor length gowns worn by the attendants were of satin in rainbow hues and made in lines similar to that of the bride. The collars and long pointed gloves were trimmed with a rhinestone design. The matron of honor, Mrs. Paul Blankenship, wore blue and carried a nosegay of pink carnations, tulle and pink satin ribbons. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Blake Blankenship wore yellow, Mrs. Macon Blankenship wore pink and Mrs. Otis Schmitt wore green. They carried matching nosegays of carnations and tulle with satin ribbon streamers.

Little Misses Cheryl Beth Blankenship and Phyllis Jean Schmitt served as flower girls and wore identical floor length gowns of net and tulle caught in puffs with tiny rhinestones. Miss Blankenship wore pink and Miss Schmitt wore blue. They carried white satin baskets and strewn pink rose petals in the path of the bride.

The groom chose Mr. James R. Hill as best man. Ushers were Gerald Hill, Macon Blankenship and Paul Blankenship.

Mrs. H. P. Blankenship, mother of the bride, chose for the wedding a suit of black faille with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Hill, mother of the groom, wore a black dress and black accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the basement of the church.

The bride's table was overlaid with green satin and held the four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom statuette. The cake was surrounded by large white daisies. A crystal punch set completed the table arrangement.

Those serving at the reception were Mrs. K. Hammonds, Mrs. Mary Jo French, Miss Eleanor Greenfield, Miss Brenda Sue Lockhart, Miss Ann Elkins, Miss Randa Brouch and Miss Jeanette Paschall. Soft music was played during the reception by Miss Bloodavene Moore.

After the reception the couple left for a trip to the Smoky Mountains with the bride wearing a navy faille suit with navy accessories. She pinned the white orchid from her wedding flowers on her shoulder.

WHAT CHRISTMAS TURKEY IS A PAMPERED BIRD

WEST NEWBURGH, Me. — Almost to the time that big, fat turkey reaches your holiday table, he is one of the most pampered birds around.

Millard Smith, a turkey raiser, revealed these highlights of the domestic life of turkeys from the time they are purchased for 90 cents each at the age of one day: They must be kept happy and well-fed.

You have to keep strangers away because that upsets them—and their feeding.

Their pens are raised above ground to keep them from running around too much and working off weight.

Humans take off their shoes on entering pens to prevent the turkeys from contracting ailments that might be tracked in.

A.E.C. UNVEILS NEWEST RESEARCH REACTOR

LEWIS L. STRAUSS, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, addresses the Executive Club in Chicago. He said that the golden atomic era will come into being if a way can be found to avoid war. Strauss declared that U.S. nuclear research has brought the world "prosperity and good works such as men have scarcely even imagined." At bottom, the A.E.C.'s newest research reactor is placed into operation at the Argonne National Laboratory in Lemont, Ill. It uses uranium 235 as its fuel and is cooled and moderated by heavy water. The reactor is 20 feet wide and 13 1/2 feet high. Access to the neutrons created within the unit is through more than 50 openings. When this photo was made technicians were replacing one of the shield plugs in preparation for an experiment in which a narrow beam of neutrons will be allowed to emerge from the reactor.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

WICK took the back road from which there was a path through the woods to the creek. He parked his car and followed the path—and walked into new concern.

Gary Norbeck's back was to the open door and so intent was he in studying a framed canvas that stood on his easel that he was not aware of Wick's coming until Wick spoke.

"Good afternoon, Norbeck."

Gary swung around. "Oh! Come in!"

Wick stepped inside. "I only stopped in to tell you that a surveyor's been made of the farm, to suggest that if you care to see what your boundaries are before they are staked off, you stop in my office some day and look at the blueprint. Sorry if I'm interrupting your work."

"You're not. I'd just finished unpacking a canvas that came back to me," Gary came away from the easel. Wick, curious, thinking, "He gets things back—they don't sell," walked toward it. Then stopped, held in angry shock. The face of the figure in the painting unmistakably was Cindy's. What was going on between the two of them? His eyes went swiftly over the canvases against the wall—Cindy in each one.

He swung around. Gary Norbeck was lighting a cigarette, neither his hands nor his face betraying any nervousness.

"You and Cindy seem to be very well acquainted," the anger in Wick's voice said more.

"Because I paint her? She's an unusually good subject and it has amused her to pose for me."

"She's very young. And she's—"

"Lonely—too alone, there in that house."

That was exactly what Wick had been about to say. Sky sternly in warning to Norbeck that whatever had been going on had to stop now. And Norbeck, saying it, sternly, himself, made it an indictment of Wick's lonely there in her back wing. A coyness in Norbeck's eyes, meeting his squarely, challenged him to deny it. And he did not know what to say.

Gary broke the moment's silence. "By the way, sis, maybe you can tell me of a good man to build a fireplace. I'd like to put one in over there between the windows. My stove wouldn't give enough heat for winter days."

The young man's change of tone and manner—as if the matter of "Cindy" were closed—the "sis," air—ing a navy training, perhaps, and making Wick feel like an old man, fed his anger.

"You're staying, I assume."

"I want it to come back to, any season of the year."

Wick said: "Biddle, on the road to Maiche, is a good mason. But fireplaces cost quite a bit to build these days."

"I know—but I think I can swing it."

"There's another thing, too, to consider before you lay out any money. Josh's will may be contested when it goes to probate—even before."

"Yes, you spoke of that possibility."

"It's more than a possibility now. Mrs. Wilmer told me today that she intends to contest it. On the grounds that her uncle was intended to write it."

"By me, I suppose," said Gary. "Probably she'll charge you with it, considering that Josh left this here to you—with its timber. She's been doing some investigation on her own. For one thing, she has found out that you came from Salem."

Gary said quietly, "Yes, I've lived in Salem."

"She has friends there, and I take it has been in communication with them. When she first came she expressed herself as thinking it very odd that a young man of your sort should be content to live up here with an old man. That it was a matter of hiding from something."

"Probably she isn't the only one who has thought that," said Gary. "But isn't that my affair?" He turned, walked the length of the room, stood there staring out of the window. "I've got under his cool skin," Wick thought with satisfaction. "Maybe there is something to that gossip." Then Gary came back, stood before Wick, his eyes meeting Wick's in a straight look. "Have you ever wanted to rid yourself of the self you've been? Desperately wanted to? Probably not, I did. Old Josh helped me to do it. With him I learned a way of living that had peace—and self-respect. What brought me to that need? I am not going to tell you, for I doubt you'd understand. Or tell in any court. This place I've made means something to me. But if any judge rules that it influenced him to give it to me—I'll have to accept it."

He stopped, pushed a hand through his hair, smiled again. "Thanks for the ap. I'll sit on the matter of the fireplace. I guess there's no rush about my looking at these blueprints, is there?"

"You can decide that for yourself," said Wick.

He went to his car, back to Kott-

Future Uncertain

FACING an uncertain future, Alger Hiss, (above), 50-year-old former U. S. State department official convicted of perjury for denying he passed government secrets to Communist agents, is released from Federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa. His release followed by six days the fatal beating of William W. Remington in the prison by inmates. (International)

We Have A Few Other Cars To Choose From

Also, a large Davton-Dowd water pump for irrigation. Rated capacity 1170 gallons per minute at 1750 RPM. Powered by Buffalo Engine. This was government owned and in very good condition.

Be sure to see "VERBLE TAYLOR", "JOE EMERSON", or "STUB WILSON" at WILSON & SON before you buy.

They will trade for anything.

They now have a pickup hay bailer, side delivery rake, two row corn drill, 2-wheel tractor trailer, race horse, and a few other items and all is for sale now.

Knocked right off the road!

(An actual case based on Company File No. WD-62 KAL2315)

Friday afternoon, and I was driving to Chicago on business. Suddenly a car shot out from a gas station and slammed into mine! What a wallop... it left my car a wreck! My head got a terrific whack and I spent the night under a doctor's care.

Saturday — bandaged and shaky — I looked up the local Hartford agent. He was very busy but dropped everything to help me. He even drove me out to the wreck to look for my glasses. We found them — smashed.

But — even on Saturday — the Hartford man persuaded a doctor to examine my eyes at once, then induced an optician to grind new lenses!

With his help I soon had a new car and was on my way. My Hartford Automobile Insurance paid the loss on my old car and also covered my doctor's bill. This experience showed me the importance of good agency insurance service, when you really need help! That's when you find out that the cost of your policy isn't as important as what it gives you in service — the considerate all-out kind I received from that Hartford agent.

As this true story emphasizes, you can gain valuable advantages by insuring your car with this Hartford agency. Through Hartford protection you can count on quick, dependable assistance in time of trouble from our office and from nearly 10,000 agents in 48 states who are backed by more than 30 claim offices from coast to coast. Let us give you full details.
